What's New for Professional Email v7.8.3?

We are excited to tell you about the new feature enhancements you will find for Webmail v7.8.3!

Features and Functionality

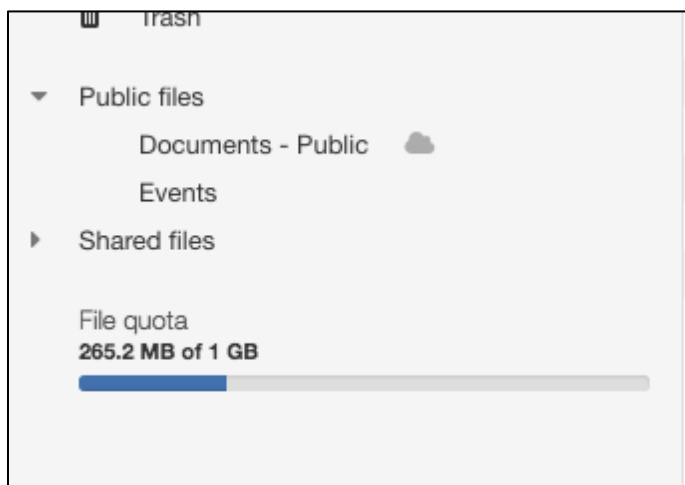

Here is a list of the new feature enhancements released in version 7.8.3:

- Drive
- Address Book
- Calendar

Drive

Users with Drive enabled will see the following improvements:

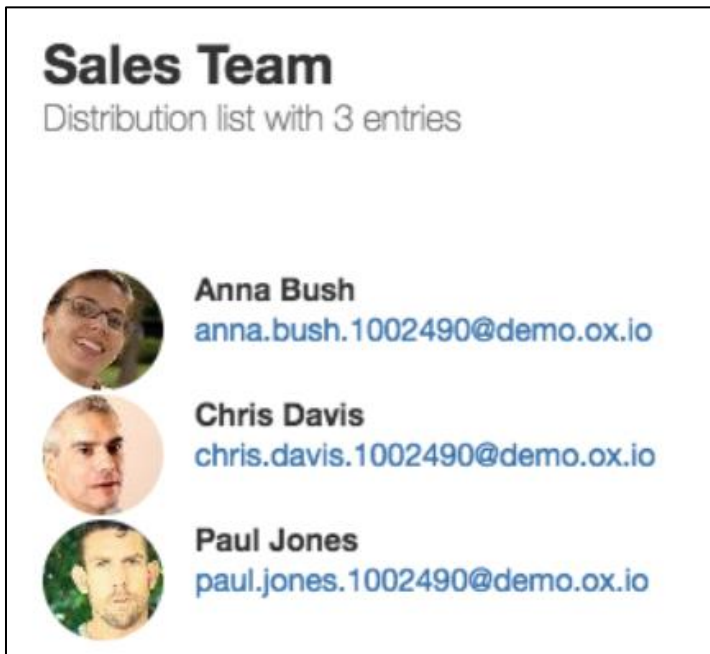

1. Better handling of large email attachments:
 - a. Webmail now allows for the composition of messages with large files without limiting the attachment size. Over-sized attachments are automatically identified, transferred to Drive, and linked to within the email.
 - b. This gives users the ability to send large files without needing to share them actively through Drive manually. Users can also set an expiration date for use and/or password-protect access to the file when the linking option is used.
2. Guest users now have access to shared content through a limited Webmail-based interface. A link allows Guest users to view shared data, upload and edit documents.
3. Drive Mail notifications sent when files are shared now include a preview image of the shared file(s).
4. When creating a sub folder in Drive, the new folder is selected by default and immediately appears in the folder tree.
5. Addition of Drive storage quota bar that allows users to monitor file storage use.

Address Book

Address Book Enhancements include:

1. Introduce the ability to use an address book pop-up when creating a new message by clicking on "To," "CC," or "BCC."
2. User can now choose to launch a global address book by default instead of private address books.
3. User can now specify an email address that is always to be added in the BCC field when composing a new email.
4. Improvements have been made to the distribution list feature to display the number of entries that belong to a list. Users can now also enable distribution lists for vCard exports within a contact folder.

Calendar

Scheduling meetings with a large number of participants using webmail is now easier. Selected participants and their appointments are now visible, enabling users to easily identify free time slots for meetings with many participants.
